

WORLDWIDE VETERINARY SERVICE

For a world where every animal receives the care they deserve

Helping animals in places where no one else can

Worldwide Veterinary Service (WVS) provides free expert care to animals in need all over the world. We do this by sending vets where they are needed most, training them to increase the standard of care globally and by shipping urgent aid supplies worldwide, every week of the year.

We make sure dogs like Moo Noi live happy, healthy lives.

Moo Noi was left with serious compound fracture and a severed paw after an accident, which sadly, he didn't receive medical attention for until weeks later. When he was finally brought to our centre in Thailand the state of his leg was horrendous.

Right away, the veterinary team placed Moo Noi on antibiotics, fluid therapy and pain relief medication to fight the infection, rehydrate his body and make him as comfortable as possible. Once his condition had improved, they were able to remove the remnants of his leg and his scapula (shoulder).

The surgery was a success and Moo Noi has since made great progress in his recovery, and even found a new home.
